Collaboration skills differentiate people because they lead to creative solutions and effective implementation; building such skills has been called the investment of the decade. Our students learn collaboration skills through completing team projects and simulations in nearly every core course, mentoring others, participating in regional and national competitions, and having the opportunity to be a leader in one of our 18 student organizations. Since technology is a key enabler of collaboration, students learn leading-edge electronic tools from the first course through the final capstone.

Distinctive programs offer opportunities for students to differentiate themselves through a combination of engaging courses, student competitions, and internships that allow organizational application. We offer three certificate programs where students can get specialized knowledge, skills, and abilities that contribute to career success. Students can pursue the Professional Accounting Certificate, Professional Sales Certificate, or the Certificate in Professional Management Consulting.

We also support students through our robust student-oriented centers, the Seufferlein Sales Program, Center for Entrepreneurship, Center for Enterprise Systems and Informatics, and Center for Excellence in Finance. Furthermore, students can round out their knowledge and skills with one of our eleven different minors. With streamlined prerequisites, the MBA offers a generalist degree and options in project management and enterprise information systems (EIS). Our committed faculty members are the drivers and champions of these programs.

The College of Business is committed to supporting students in their effort to learn, graduate, and succeed. We offer students the resources for efficient graduation, engagement with learning in and beyond the classroom, and connections with international students and study abroad opportunities. Business Student Advising offers timely information so students can choose majors and courses wisely from their first year through the MBA Program. Our Business Student Success Center offers customized tutoring, academic, and professional development workshops. Mentors, tutors, internships, and student organizations offer help, a sense of community, and opportunities.

Management Information Systems

MINS 198  Special Topics  1-3 Units
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
3 hours supervision. (005816)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course more than once
Course Attributes: Lower Division

MINS 235  Database Design  3 Units
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
Study of fundamental database design principles and techniques, including data modeling with Entity-Relationship diagrams and normalization. Study of SQL (Structured Query Language) database management systems capabilities. Study of the relational data model and relational operations. Study of database security mechanisms. Introduction to PL/SQL. Application of concepts and techniques to practical business scenarios. 3 hours lecture. (005814)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division

MINS 301  Corporate Technology Integration  3 Units
Prerequisite: Junior Standing
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
This course introduces students to the concept of information systems as the application of technical resources to support organizational processes. Given this foundation, students build an integrative, process-oriented understanding of information systems and their deployment, management, and use within distributed and global organizations. Projects focus on introductory enterprise systems, fundamentals of database systems, and basic Web programming. This course is designed for BADM majors. 3 hours lecture. (005770)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division

MINS 311  Foundation of Database Design  1.5 Units
Prerequisite: Open to Online MBA and Online BADM BS students only.
Typically Offered: Fall only
This course provides students with the core concepts of database design through data modeling, data definition language (DDL), and data manipulation language (DML). Microsoft’s SQL Server - a relational database - is our primary interest, as it is one of the most widely used database management system. The underlying foundation and technologies behind database design will be discussed. After successfully completing this course, students will be able to effectively and efficiently organize data using the notion of entity-relationship diagram (ERD) and to perform data retrieval using SQL DML statements. 1.5 hours lecture. (022154)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 1.5 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division

MINS 312  Foundations of Networking  1.5 Units
Prerequisite: Open to Online MBA and Online BADM BS students only.
Typically Offered: Spring only
This is an introductory course into the foundations of computer networking. You will learn how basic computer networks are built to interconnect and form Local Area Networks (LANs) and Wide Area Networks (WANs). The course topics include basic network topologies, cabling, TCP/IP networks, ethernet switching, wireless networking, optical networks, and the Internet. Hands-on-Labs are available for learning functions and configurations for network protocols. Throughout this course, you will gain a greater understanding of how and why each type of technology is used and implemented. 1.5 hours lecture. (022143)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 1.5 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division

MINS 325  Business Programming  3 Units
Prerequisite: BSIS 301 or MINS 301.
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
Introduction to the basic problem-solving skills needed to create and maintain business-oriented software. This course provides an overview of business information systems, their use in business contexts, and object-oriented design of applications. Coverage includes a survey of basic data structures and the standard algorithms used to manipulate and work with them. Students are expected to build and test a number of programs using an integrated development environment. 3 hours lecture. (005819)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division

MINS 335  Database Application Development  3 Units
Prerequisite: MINS 235.
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division

MINS 346  Data Communications and Networking  3 Units
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
An introduction to data communications and local area networks. This course provides a background in standards and protocols used in communications and their functions within a business information system environment. The class combines lectures, writing assignments, group work, and class discussion to develop a fundamental knowledge of data communications and its importance to the business information systems environment. 3 hours lecture. (021457)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Upper Division
MINS 350  Business Systems Analysis  3 Units
Prerequisite: MINS 235, BCOM 300W (for BSIS majors, may be taken concurrently).
Typically Offered: Fall and spring
An in-depth examination of tools, techniques, and processes used to support the systems analysis portion of the systems development life cycle. Emphasis is given to requirements gathering, gap-fit analysis, development of the business case for systems development projects, as well as tools and techniques that plan, identify, model and communicate conceptual systems to both end users and programmers. Both case studies and real projects are used to develop hands-on experience with conducting business analysis studies from object, data, and process perspectives. 3 hours lecture.  (005818)
Grade Basis: Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 6 units
