We prepare students for successful professional careers in applied science, engineering, and technology. We educate students to be successful leaders and innovators capable of meeting complex challenges.

- We teach, mentor, motivate, and challenge students.
- We foster rich learning environments.
- We advance scholarship and creativity.
- We encourage industry engagement and collaboration.
- We promote teamwork through projects and co-curricular activities.
- We value graduate education and life-long learning.
- We create a new generation of problem-solvers for a sustainable future.

Our programs engage students in real-world community service and industry-sponsored projects. Students get direct, hands-on learning in laboratories and are mentored and advised by professors with years of academic and industry experience. Students learn outside the classroom as members of student chapters of professional associations and competition teams where students build bridges, design race cars, and launch rockets.
