Insight
The Department of Languages and Cultures prepares students for the challenges and opportunities of the multilingual, multicultural world we inhabit.

Majoring in a language means developing advanced communicative proficiency in the language and gaining a deeper understanding of the people and places where the language is spoken. Knowledge of a foreign language also deepens understanding of one's own language, values, and traditions and fosters a greater appreciation of cultural differences. Area studies majors further attain an interdisciplinary perspective on a diverse and dynamic region of the world.

Experience
Language instruction in the Department of Languages and Cultures (LANC) is oriented toward practical usage. In addition to Spanish for both non-natives and heritage speakers, LANC offers Spanish courses for professional applications in fields such as health care and agriculture. Learners can develop their creative writing ability or hone their translation skills. Students also have the opportunity to participate in community-based internships or to gain mentored, hands-on language teaching experiences. Extracurricular offerings include weekly language conversation hours, academic honor societies, and Spanish, French, German, and Japanese Fusion clubs that host a variety of activities and events each year.

Many LANC students opt to spend part of their time as a student at California State University, Chico studying abroad. A multitude of program options means that there is literally a choice to fit every student's needs. Whether you opt to spend a year abroad through one of the California State University International Programs, or a year, semester, or summer through AIFS, USAC, direct exchange, or via a faculty-led program abroad in one of dozens of locations, you will be able to apply that academic work toward a major or minor in languages and/or area studies, as well as toward another major or minor and/or General Education and other graduation requirements. A program advisor in LANC or a study abroad advisor can help you choose the program that is right for you.

Intercultural competence opens the door to many exciting careers. Proficiency in a world language and/or a degree in area studies leads to careers in international business, marketing, foreign intelligence and diplomacy, travel and tourism, entertainment, media and public relations, communications, translation/interpretation, teaching, and many service professions, to name but a few. Students specifically interested in careers in language education in the U.S. or abroad can enhance their employment potential by completing the MA in language teaching.

At the same time, a language and/or area studies major enhances a candidate's attractiveness to employers in most career fields both at home and abroad. Proficiency in another language, but also the cultural awareness and general communication skills that are attained as part of the major are highly valued by employers.

Education-Second Language

EDSL 605 Technology in Second/Foreign Language Teaching and Learning 3 Units
Typically Offered: Spring only
This graduate seminar introduces future language teachers to the role and use of technology in learning and teaching a second/foreign language. Through reading, interactive discussions, and individual and group projects, students in this course explore current theories, empirical research and pedagogical applications of technology in second language acquisition (SLA), with a focus on computer-assisted language learning (CALL). In particular, we explore how technology can be used to provide and increase multimodal input in foreign language teaching; digital storytelling; telecommunication and telecollaboration projects; the multiliteracies approach and digital literacy; digital games for developing foreign language learners’ intercultural competence and sociopragmatic awareness; technology for vocabulary instruction; mobile language learning; technology and task-based language learning; and issues relating to inclusive language education and technology. 3 hours lecture. (022019)
Grade Basis: Graduate Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Graduate Division

EDSL 610 Second/Foreign Language Teaching Methodology for Beginning Learners 3 Units
Typically Offered: Fall only
Survey of innovative approaches to foreign/second language teaching.
An overview of theory and practice in the field, highlighting methods for the development of comprehension and communication skills.
Humanistic techniques, teaching the cultural context of language use, and language testing are also included. 3 hours seminar. (002891)
Grade Basis: Graduate Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Graduate Division

EDSL 620 Second/Foreign Language Teaching Methodology for Intermediate Learners 3 Units
Typically Offered: Spring only
This seminar builds upon concepts and practices taught in EDSL 610.
The course introduces future teachers to pedagogical approaches and research focused on language instruction for intermediate learners and heritage language speakers. Specifically, we focus upon: Teaching intermediate/advanced grammar and vocabulary; feedback and error correction through extended discourse; increasing language output in the classroom; assessing reading, writing, listening, and speaking; test design and scoring as well as task evaluation; planning teaching units and developing a syllabus; evaluation of textbooks; teaching heritage language speakers; serving second language and heritage language learners in the same classroom, and principles of immersion education. 3 hours lecture. (021962)
Grade Basis: Graduate Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Graduate Division
EDSL 630  Teaching Second Language Writing 3 Units
Typically Offered: Fall only
This graduate seminar is designed to engage future language instructors in teaching and learning of second/foreign language writing. We reflect on pertinent issues in teaching second language (L2) writing to linguistically and culturally diverse learners, both from a pedagogical and research perspective. Students in this course explore current approaches to L2 writing, including process-oriented, genre-focused, model-based, and task-based approaches. Through critical reading and interactive discussions, individual and group projects, and reflective activities, we explore differences between L1 and L2 writing, learners' beliefs and needs regarding L2 writing, scaffolding the writing process and designing effective writing tasks; peer collaboration and feedback in L2 writing; and assessing writing. Students in this course gain hands-on experience in designing their own teaching materials, including an instructional unit for an L2 writing course. 3 hours seminar. (021961)
Grade Basis: Graduate Graded
Course Attributes: Graduate Division

EDSL 633  Foreign/Second Language Teaching: The Cultural Dimension 3 Units
Typically Offered: Fall only
This course provides language professionals with an opportunity to examine the cultural dimensions of language teaching and learning. Students investigate context and culture in language teaching, explore ways of addressing culture-related standards, and engage in an in-depth review of research in this area. They also apply their knowledge and skills to enhance interaction and instruction in language classrooms for all learners. 3 hours lecture. (020007)
Grade Basis: Graduate Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Graduate Division

EDSL 635  Current Research and Developments in Foreign/Second Language Education 3 Units
Typically Offered: Spring only
Theories of language acquisition and applications of research. This course focuses on linguistic, psychological, sociocultural, historical, and legal bases of foreign language and English as a second language. 3 hours seminar. (002888)
Grade Basis: Graduate Graded
Repeatability: You may take this course for a maximum of 3 units
Course Attributes: Graduate Division

EDSL 689  Internship 1-6 Units
Typically Offered: Inquire at department
This course is an internship. You must register with a supervising faculty member. 0 hours supervision. (021820)
Grade Basis: Credit/No Credit
